

Website Update Brief: Ianiajayi.com Realignment

1. Strategic Positioning & Client Perspective

From the perspective of a global founder or early-stage startup leader, the website must immediately communicate trust, agility, and competence. When a client lands on the page, they are looking for a solution to their "messy middle" — they want to know that you have the rigorous legal background and the commercial MBA acumen to protect them while they scale rapidly.

- Clarity of Offering: The site must explicitly state that you are a legal and operations partner, not just a traditional consultant. It must clearly separate this focus from any other educational advisory ventures.
- Authority & Trust: Highlight your 7+ years of professional experience, dual MBA and law credentials, and European base for global reach.
- Low-Friction Action: A clear path to booking a diagnostic call or sending a direct message.

2. Updated Service Pillars (Replacing Enterprise Sales)

This section replaces the previous focus on enterprise sales and partnerships with your refined core competencies.

Service Pillar	Client Benefit	Key Deliverables
Dedicated Legal & Operations Advisor	Fractional leadership to guide internal operations and manage external counsel without the overhead of a full-time executive.	Regulatory compliance frameworks, corporate governance structuring, and day-to-day operational strategy.
Commercial Contracting	Accelerated deal cycles and protected downside risk for B2B tech platforms.	Structuring SLAs, vendor agreements, and cross-border commercial alliances.
Investment Readiness	Ensuring the startup is legally and operationally flawless before approaching investors or securing debt funding.	VC data room preparation, cap table structuring, share allotments, and term sheet evaluation.

3. Design & User Experience (UX) Recommendations

To move away from the "too solid" feel and breathe life into the digital storefront, the following design upgrades are recommended to make the site feel premium and dynamic:

- Introduce Whitespace & Breathability: Break up heavy, solid colour blocks with ample whitespace. This makes the content easier to digest and instantly upgrades the perceived value of your brand.
- Strategic Imagery:
 - Professional Portrait: Include a high-quality, approachable image of yourself to build an immediate human connection. Founders buy into the operator as much as they buy into the service.
 - Conceptual Visuals: Use abstract imagery that subtly suggests "building frameworks," "growth," or "structuring" (e.g., clean architectural lines, dynamic geometric patterns, or high-quality workspace aesthetics). Avoid generic stock photos of handshakes or gavels.

The visual identity must move away from stark, clinical, or robotic corporate aesthetics. The goal is a warm, premium, and inviting user experience that feels human and grounded.

- Colour Palette: Soft, warm off-white backgrounds (e.g., alabaster or light cream) rather than harsh whites. Accent colours should be grounded earth tones, such as muted sage greens, warm terracottas, or deep slate greys.
- Imagery Strategy (Organic Meets Structural): Visuals should blend organic, natural elements with clean architectural lines (e.g., a deeply rooted tree juxtaposed against a modern glass building). Avoid generic, sterile stock photos of handshakes or gavels. The imagery should evoke "building sustainable frameworks" and natural "growth."
- Typography: Clean, modern headers (signalling structure) paired with softer, highly readable body fonts (signalling approachability).

About the Operator

Integrate the newly drafted LinkedIn "About" section here to ensure absolute continuity between your inbound pipeline and the website.

"I operate at the intersection of legal rigour and business growth. With over seven years of professional experience, I've found that the best opportunities often sit in the messy middle—where strategy meets execution, and where regulation meets innovation.

I act as a strategic partner and legal advisor to global founders and high-growth companies. Whether it is structuring commercial contracts, ensuring investment readiness, or building foundational legal frameworks, I provide the scaffolding businesses need to scale sustainably.

Beyond the boardroom, I am deeply invested in mentorship, cultural diplomacy, prison advocacy, and community building. I believe in building systems that outlast the transaction.

Based in Lille. Always open to connecting with builders and innovators.”

. New Page Addition: Pricing & Packages A dedicated page to transparently display productised offerings using a "Starting at" model, anchoring value while leaving room for scope expansion.
